Lebanon has been wracked by civil war, Syrian occupation, Iranian intervention, wars with Israel, acts of terror, political assassinations, and bankruptcy. Then on August 4, 2020, the devastating detonation of 2750 tons of ammonium nitrate at the port ignited a new implosion—explosion among a restive population that still holds unlimited promise—if peace and stability can be achieved. Lebanese Information Center president Joseph Gebeily, national director of the World Council for the Cedars Revolution John Hajjar, and American Maronite Union chair Tom Harb join Edwin to dig into the details.
